

I am writing in support of Airl Radio, which could be dramatically impacted by proposed changes in the LPFM service. Airl Radio is a particularly unique broadcast service in that they are able to provide a "large market" quality of service to numerous small markets across the US. In addition, they are able to scale up their services and provide quality entertainment to even more communities through their time-tested plan of growth. Airl Radio is truly a "positive alternative" to the typical commercial radio offering. It is a safe-haven for parents in that they are able to tune in and not have to monitor the situation to be certain that their children are not hearing objectionable lyrics or commentary. As an American, I support the right of broadcasters to provide what I would classify as "objectionable content" because I have an alternative that is available to me. In the event that the expansion of the LPFM service is approved, the FCC will have, in effect, taken away the "family friendly" alternative. While it is difficult to quantify the negative effects on the community, there will be negative effects. The target market for Airl radio is those who will be the leaders and decision makers in our country in the next two decades. A healthy country must be a diverse and well-rounded community. Please do all that you can do to make sure that Airl Radio is available to offer that alternative to the communities that they serve.
